EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

BOB CASCIOLA / Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer

Enthusiasm is a feeling that Bob Casciola has instilled in the New Jersey Nets organization and something that he hopes will be contagious to Nets fans.

Casciola, Nets executive vice president and chief operating officer, is optimistic about the Nets' future and the players that will be part of it.

"We feel that we have some new young faces who bring a lot of enthusiasm to this club," Casciola said. "We have a fresh new logo with bright, modern uniforms. Our organization is geared up for the success that lay ahead of us."

Under a new basketball management team—headed by Casciola, which includes Senior Vice President of Basketball Operations Willis Reed and Head Coach Bill Fitch—the Nets have reshaped the team and have increased its competitiveness.

Derrick Coleman, Tate George, and Jud Buechler, were chosen in the 1990 NBA Draft and offer a tremendous influx of quality youth. Reggie Theus, a 12-year veteran scoring guard, was also added around draft time in a move that gives the team some more experience and versatility.

Since joining the team in 1987, Casciola has provided noticeable changes such as increased corporate business, increased exposure with the return to public television on WWOR-TV9, expanded community relations programs, and revamped game operations. However, probably the most visible changes to people are the logo and uniform.

The scheme of the design for the logo and uniform utilizes the Nets' traditional colors of red, white, and blue in a gradation of colors to produce a visual perception of action.

"As we move into the 1990's, we felt it was time for a change in our look and style as we also change our fortunes on the court," commented Casciola. "The idea of the new design was to update us to the present times and to give us a different and innovative look from the other teams."

Casciola, a 1958 graduate of Princeton University, has deep roots in the state of New Jersey and has heightened the Nets' awareness of community relations with the addition of Len Rivers to the staff in 1988 as Director of Community Affairs.

Rivers has traveled the state spreading the word to schools and organizations that education for the youth of the state is important and that the Nets are playing the point against illiteracy and drug use among children. One of Rivers' most successful programs has been the Academic Awareness Camp which is run in the summer at different cities around the state for inner-city student-athletes.

"I'm very proud to see what Len has been able to accomplish with the camps in such a short period," noted Casciola. "We wanted to create more than just an athletic camp, believing there were other very important issues that could be addressed by people whose accomplishments would have a real influence on young people."

Casciola remains personally active in the community as well. He is on the Board of Directors of the Newark Boys and Girls Club and serves on the selection committee for the NJSIAA's Tournament of Champions. He is a past member of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the past Chairman of the Governors Committee on the Disabled. He is a past recipient of the NJSIAA's Coaches Association's "Honor Award", and just this fall, was honored as "The Man of the Year" by the New Jersey Tournament of Champions.

Casciola was involved in college football for over 20 years as an assistant coach both at Princeton University and Dartmouth College, and then as a head coach at the University of Connecticut and Princeton. He left coaching in 1978 to become an Assistant Vice President of Government Banking at First Fidelity Bank, N.A., New Jersey, before being promoted to Senior Vice President and Director of Corporate Sales in 1986.

WILLIS REED / Senior Vice President of Basketball Operations

Willis Reed's broad shoulders have proven over the years to be able to handle quite a heavy load, thus, it was no surprise in May when the Nets made Reed the offer to take on even more responsibility as senior vice president of basketball operations.

Already, Reed has shown results as he joined up with a restructured management team of Executive Vice President Bob Casciola and Head Coach Bill Fitch to select three quality players, Derrick Coleman (the No. 1 pick in the country), Tate George, and Jud Buechler in the 1990 NBA Draft and acquire 12-year veteran scorer Reggie Theus.

Reed now coordinates all of the day-to-day operations of the basketball staff and oversees all aspects of scouting in the collegiate and professional ranks. He is also the front man in all negotiations of contracts and trade proposals.

"I'm very excited about my new role with the team," commented Reed. "This is a tremendous challenge for me professionally because I will be involved with new responsibilities such as contract negotiations, and I will be able to grow with each experience.

"I will work with Bob Casciola and Bill Fitch to make the Nets as competitive as we possibly can. The people of New Jersey will have a team that they can be proud of."

Reed has shown that he will give himself to whatever role is necessary to help the New Jersey Nets franchise prosper.

After a year and a half as the Nets head coach, from March of 1988 through the remainder of the 1987-88 season and all of the 1988-89 campaign, Reed relinquished his coaching duties to take on greater responsibility with the club in upper management as vice president of basketball and business development. He remained in that capacity for the whole of the 1989-90 season in which he was responsible primarily in the scouting and evaluation of college and professional personnel. In addition, he was utilized on the other end of the spectrum in the marketing area of the club with existing and potential corporate sponsors.

As head coach of the Nets, Reed compiled a 33-77 (.300) record in a year and a half of duty. In the 1988-89 season his first full year, he guided a team in transition to its best record in three years with a 26-56 (.317) mark.

Reed has made a career of basketball and it is one filled with success.

During an illustrious ten-year career as a player, the 6-10 center led the New York Knicks to a pair of World Titles and became the club's all-time leading rebounder with 8,414 career caroms. Known affectionately as the "captain" of the Knicks during his playing days, his success was immediate, being named the league's Rookie of the Year in 1965. In 1970, while leading the Knicks to the NBA crown, he was named Most Valuable Player in the regular season, All-Star game, and playoffs. He also captured the playoff MVP and led the Knicks to another NBA title in 1973. Reed appeared in seven all-star games and is the Knicks second all-time leading scorer with 12,183 points and finished with an 18.7 point average per game in his 650 career games played.

His accomplishments as a fierce competitor were recognized in 1981 when he was elected to the National Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame.

Reed returned to the Knicks as head coach in 1977 and led the team to a 43-39 record and playoff berth in his first season. After a year in the pro ranks, Reed volunteered to assist Lou Carnessecca for one season at St. John's University before taking over the head reigns at Creighton University.

In 1985, Reed returned to the NBA as an assistant coach with the Atlanta Hawks. During two years with the Hawks, Reed helped the club post consecutive 50-plus win seasons and a franchise record 57 victories in 1986-87. He then moved on as an assistant to Sacramento and remained until coming to the Nets in March 1988.

Reed, 48, starred at Grambling University, leading the school to the NAIA Championship in 1961. In 1970, he was elected to the NAIA Basketball Hall of Fame.

A native of Bernice, Louisiana, he and his wife, Gale, reside in South Orange, NJ.

BILL FITCH / Head Coach

When Bill Fitch joined the New Jersey Nets organization in August 1989, before the start of the 1989-90 season, he could never have imagined the year that lay ahead of him.

In his first year back in coaching after taking a year off following the 1987-88 campaign, Fitch found himself in the middle of a season that ended with a 17-65 record and a last place finish. However, such a scenario did not wear on Fitch as it would on many other coaches because he had seen years like last year before and he had also been the focal point of the great turnarounds in subsequent years.

Fitch became determined, rather than dispirited, to turn the fortunes of the New Jersey Nets around like he has done so many times before with his previous teams. He is confident that surrounding himself with players that want to make the sacrifices necessary to be successful will enable the Nets to stand up and make opponents around the league take notice.

Bill Fitch

"I felt that the year we went through in 1989-90 would make the players better," commented Fitch. "We would not be a 17-win team in 1990-91 with the exact same roster from last season because when you go through something like that it makes you stronger and wiser.

"Fortunately, we weren't required to stand pat and we were able to make some changes that will really help the team. We were able to get Reggie Theus through a trade and through the draft, Derrick Coleman, Tate George and Jud Buechler."

During 19 NBA seasons—nine at Cleveland, four at Boston, five with Houston, and his first at New Jersey—he has posted twelve winning campaigns. His teams have won five division titles. The Rockets won the Midwest in 1986, the 1976 Cavaliers won the Central, while three of his Celtic teams ('80-'82) won the Atlantic.

Fitch is the fifth all-time winningest coach in NBA history with 779-779 (.500) record. He is ninth in the NBA Playoff Coaching Records (Most Career Victories) with a 54-48 (.529) record.

He put together the Cavaliers' expansion team in 1970-71 and took them to the playoffs three times after a 15-67 season their first year, including the 1975-76 season with a then club record 49-33 mark which resulted in his being named Coach of the Year. He drafted and developed for the Cavaliers John Johnson, Austin Carr, Dwight Davis, Jim Brewer, Campy Russell, and Mike Mitchell.

In 1979 he took over a Boston team coming off a 29-win season, poorest mark in three decades, and guided the Celtics to a 32-game turn-around for a 61-21 record. That earned him Coach of the Year honors and made him the first coach to win that honor twice. The following year the Celtics won the NBA championship after a 63-19 regular season. His four year mark at Boston was 242-86, a .738 winning percentage. Fitch was the first pro coach for Larry Bird, Kevin McHale and Danny Ainge.

In 1983 he took over a Rocket team that had won 14 games the previous year. His first edition won 29 games, his second team 48, the 1986 squad went 51-31—capping it off with a trip to the NBA Finals, and in '86-'87 Houston finished 42-40 and made it to the playoffs despite an 11-17 start, injuries to Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon, plus the suspension of two key players (Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins). The 141 wins is the most over a three-year period in the 20-year history of the Rockets' franchise.

Fitch guided the Rockets to their best season to date, in 1985-86, as they had a club-record 20-game home win streak to start the season, record home marks of 36-5 for the regular season and 9-1 for the playoffs. Houston clinched their first three playoff series on the road at Sacramento, at Denver, and at the Los Angeles Lakers.

In Fitch's last season with Houston, 1987-88, he led the team to a 46-36 record and then suffered a 3-1 defeat in the first round of the playoffs at the hands of the Dallas Mavericks.

During the 1988-89 NBA season, Fitch stayed out of coaching. He took the year off to rejuvenate himself while becoming an avid golfer.

In 12 years as a college coach—at his Alma Mater Coe College in Iowa, at North Dakota, at Bowling Green, and at Minnesota—he had only two losing seasons while compiling a 181-115 record. His last three North Dakota teams had a 70-16 record, and two of those clubs went to the Division II Final Four. His only Bowling Green team won the 1968 Mid-American Conference championship and then lost by one point to Marquette in the NCAA Tournament. He coached two years in the Big Ten at Minnesota before joining the pro ranks with Cleveland in 1970.

Born in Davenport, Iowa, Fitch was raised in Cedar Rapids where he attended both high school and Coe College. He starred in basketball and baseball for Coe. He was co-captain and a second-team All-Midwest Conference selection his senior year, as he led Coe to an 18-4 overall record and the league co-championship (9-3) in 1953-54. He was a three year letterman in basketball and received his B.S. degree in physical education from Coe in 1954, and in 1958 he earned his M.A. degree in educational psychology from Creighton. From 1956-58 he was head baseball coach and assistant basketball coach at Creighton where he coached former major league star Bob Gibson in both sports.

Fitch resides in Hackensack, NJ.

TOM NEWELL / Assistant Coach

Tom Newell joins Bill Fitch's basketball staff as his top assistant after serving four years as an assistant coach under Bernie Bickerstaff with the Seattle Supersonics.

Newell, 43, comes from a well known basketball family and is well respected as a teacher and communicator of basketball skills. He has conducted annual skills camps for many years that are similar to "Big Man's Camp" run by his father, Pete Newell.

"I'm really happy to have the opportunity to work with an up and coming team like the Nets," lauded Newell. "I've known Bill Fitch for many years and I'm excited about working with and learning from someone who's at the top of his profession."

While with the Sonics, Newell was very active in their "Best Effort Camp" for children. The Best Effort program is closely aligned with the Nets' "Academic Awareness Camps" and "Stay in School" programs coordinated by Len Rivers, Nets Director of Community Affairs. Newell's involvement in the New Jersey community will certainly enhance the efforts in the Nets' public awareness.

Prior to joining the Supersonics in 1986, Newell served as Director of Player Personnel with the Indiana Pacers for two seasons. With the Pacers, Newell was responsible for coordinating college scouting and was involved in player acquisitions and contract negotiations.

Newell grew up in the Oakland area, where he was a member of the 1965 Northern California High School Championship Team, Bishop O'Dowd High School. He then served in the U.S. Navy on active duty from 1966-68 and the reserves from 1968-72. After his duty in the Navy, Newell received a scholarship to attend the University of Hawaii, where he was a two-time co-captain of the Rainbow team that went on to post-season play in the NIT in 1971. After his graduation from college, Newell played and coached in Western Europe and Belgium. He returned to California and was associated with the Golden State Warriors for five years as a regional scout before joining the Pacers.

Newell is married to wife, Elaine, and they have three children: Ashleigh, 11; Christopher, 7; and Paige, 3.

RICK CARLISLE / Assistant Coach

After one full month on the roster as a player last season with the New Jersey Nets, Rick Carlisle turned in his players uniform to pick up a clipboard, as he made an abrupt transition from player to assistant coach.

Carlisle, 31, joined Bill Fitch's coaching staff and immediately was given the responsibility of advanced scouting of teams on the road and the complex mode of video operations.

With a year now under his belt, Carlisle has accustomed himself to life as an NBA coach.

"Last season was a great learning experience for me," commented Carlisle. "The transition from player to coach so quickly, would seem to be a tough situation, but the players and everyone involved really helped out and understood that I was there to help the Nets win anyway that I could.

"I feel that the team has positioned itself with some really competitive talent and I will try to prepare the coaches and players with as much information as I can about our opponents. I also look forward to working in practices with some of our younger players on their adjustments to the NBA lifestyle."

As a four year veteran of the NBA, Carlisle began his career as the Boston Celtics' third round pick in the 1984 draft (69th overall) and was the only rookie to make the Celtics squad that season. After seeing spot duty in his rookie year, the following season, 1985-86, Carlisle averaged 2.6 points per game in 77 contests as a member of the Celtics' NBA Championship team.

Carlisle began his college career at Maine before transferring for his last two years of eligibility to Virginia. At Virginia he averaged 11.1 points as a teammate of Ralph Sampson's, the College Player of the Year, and studied psychology and business management.

LEN RIVERS / Director of Community Affairs

Since joining the New Jersey Nets organization in February 1989, Len Rivers has traveled the state of New Jersey and has made over 356 speaking engagements and appearances to schools, youth groups, social organizations, and business clubs.

Rivers, Director of Community Affairs for the Nets, has made quite an impact on the Nets' efforts in community awareness.

"I'm having the time of my life right now," noted the former educator. "The Nets organization is one of the best that I have ever been associated with. Everyone involved is committed to the success of the franchise, and as a franchise, the Nets recognize the importance of the community.

"The New Jersey Nets and professional basketball can have such an impact on people. We run programs that we feel, really benefit children with information on education and drug use with positive reinforcements on the role of athletes in people's lives."

Several ways that Rivers has tried to impact children's lives are through numerous sponsor clinics and programs that teach children about the benefits of education and the dangers of drugs and alcohol. His major programs include the "Academic Awareness Camps", "The Stay in School Program", and the Jersey City Urban Basketball League.

"Len has done an outstanding job since he joined the club," commented Nets Executive Vice President Bob Casciola, who coached with Rivers from

Len Rivers

Fritz Massman

1973-77 at Princeton University, and at the University of Connecticut, 1970-72. "The programs that he has initiated are drawing praise from people all around the state and have thrust the Nets into the public eye as an organization that cares about young people in the region that it plays."

In the brief amount of time that Rivers has been with the Nets his "Academic Awareness Camps" have grown in popularity. After just two years, the program has already expanded two extra weeks and has branched from Newark to the Trenton area with even further extension of the camps in the future to other New Jersey cities.

The camps work on the premise of providing basketball instruction to athletes in urban areas with a large complement of academic and educational tutoring. Students spend the morning hours of the week long day camps in a classroom setting learning about such things as motivation, how to prepare for and take tests, how to study and discipline time, and how to "Say No to Drugs".

Prior to joining the Nets, Rivers was head football coach at Franklin High School and came a couple of touchdowns away from winning the 1988 state high school football championship.

Rivers had tremendous success as head football coach at Franklin Township High School. He led the Central Jersey school to a perfect 12-0 record and a Group III Championship in 1987, which duplicated the season of his 1984 Franklin squad that was 12-0 and also won a state title. Rivers garnered numerous "Coach of the Year" honors during both of those seasons.

As an undergraduate at Springfield College, he earned letters in football, track and wrestling and just missed qualifying for the 1956 Olympics as a heavyweight wrestler. He then spent two years in the Army Special Services before moving on to Stamford Catholic Connecticut High School. From Stamford Catholic he moved to Rippowam High School in Stamford and was involved in the Stamford Anti-Poverty Program.

Rivers is a resident of Plainsboro, New Jersey.

FRITZ MASSMANN / Trainer

In a professional sports organization change often seems to be common place. The Nets organization supports that generalization, as it has seen great change over the years. However, there always is an exception to every rule. In this case, the exception is trainer Fritz Massmann.

For twenty-one seasons, this watchdog (or better known as Frito the Bulldog amongst the players) has presided over the Nets locker rooms, practices and games with hardly a day missed of duty. Massmann's career reads like a history book of the franchise, dating back to its days on Long Island. He is the lone man who has endured the emotional ups and downs of the team's past. He has experienced the joy of winning ABA Championships and defeating the NBA Champion Philadelphia 76ers in the playoffs six years ago, and the agony of trading Julius Erving and suffering hundreds of losses.

In perhaps his proudest moment as a Net, Massmann presented Erving with his retired Net jersey during ceremonies held in 1987 at the Meadowlands Arena to honor the former captain.

One of the best known and highly acclaimed trainers in the country, Massmann received the ultimate honor when he was enshrined in the National Athletic Trainers Association Hall of Fame in 1984, becoming the first NBA athletic trainer to be so honored. He was also chosen the association's 1986-87 Athletic Trainer of the Year, an award given to an NBA trainer by his peers as deserving special recognition for his contributions to the athletic training program.

Massmann, 63, has logged 37 years as a trainer on the professional, collegiate, and high school levels. Before coming to the Nets in 1970, he had worked with athletics at Columbia, Brown, Boston College, Iona, and Iona Prep. He has also been a trainer for numerous special events and has gone with NBA teams to Europe on various tours, as well as conducting many basketball clinics during the off-season. Professionally, he is the past President of the Eastern Athletic Trainers Association and Director of District I for six and a half years.

Fritz and his wife Jacqueline, reside on Long Island, and have five children—Michael (34), Brian (33), Donald (32), Paul (25), and Marcia (24), plus three grandchildren.

Final Record: 34-48 (.415)

Bernard King was traded to Utah Jazz for Rich Kelley on October 2nd, moving Calvin Natt into a starting role. Natt sparkles and is eventually traded to Portland on February 8th in exchange for Maurice Lucas and two first round selections. Williamson is traded to Washington for Roger Phegley on February 4th, and Kelley is sent to Phoenix on February 15th for a 1982 first round selection. Cliff Robinson, after recovering from early season illness and injuries, begins to realize his potential and is named to the NBA's All-Rookie second team. Mike Newlin, in his first year with the Nets, enjoyed his finest season as a pro, leading the team in scoring with 20.9 points per game.

1980-81: NEW JERSEY DRAFTS MIKE O'KOREN AND MIKE GMINSKI FROM ACC; MEADOWLANDS ARENA TAKING SHAPE AND WILL BE NETS NEW HOME BY 1981 OPENER; KEVIN LOUGHERY RESIGNS AND WILL BE REPLACED BY LARRY BROWN NEXT SEASON.
Final Record: 24-58 (.293)

In New Jersey's last season at the Rutgers Athletic Center, Kevin Loughery, the Nets' coach for the past seven years, resigns in mid-December. Assistant Coach Bob MacKinnon replaces Loughery for the remainder of the season. Larry Brown is named head coach in March and will take over at season's end. Mike Newlin leads the team in scoring for the second straight year with 21.4 points per game. Rookies Mike Gminski, and Darwin Cook finish among the top 10 rookies in scoring.

1981-82: NEW JERSEY OPENS UP IN BYRNE ARENA; ACQUIRES OTIS BIRDSONG AND RAY WILLIAMS; DRAFTS ALL-AMERICANS BUCK WILLIAMS AND ALBERT KING FROM MARYLAND; NETS FINISH WITH THEIR BEST RECORD EVER IN THE NBA TO DATE AND APPEAR IN THE PLAYOFFS

Home Court: Brendan Byrne Arena, East Rutherford, N.J.
Final Record: 44-38 (.537)

In his first season as head coach, Larry Brown guides New Jersey into the NBA playoffs after the club starts the season 3-12. Ray Williams, who the Nets acquired from the New York Knicks on October 25th for Maurice Lucas, leads the team in scoring with 20.4 points per game. Buck Williams is named Rookie-of-the-Year and becomes the first Net ever to appear in the NBA All-Star game. The 20 game won/loss difference from a season ago is the biggest turnaround of any team in the NBA while the average attendance of 13,875 is the fourth best mark in the league.

1982-83: NEW JERSEY ADDS CHARISMATIC CENTER DARRYL DAWKINS TO ROSTER WITH AUGUST 17TH TRADE TO PHILADELPHIA; NETS WIN TEAM RECORD 11 STRAIGHT EN ROUTE TO ANOTHER TEAM RECORD 49 WINS IN THEIR FINEST NBA REGULAR SEASON; LARRY BROWN RESIGNS AS HEAD COACH

The Nets begin the season with Phil Ford having replaced Ray Williams at point guard. Seven games into the season, Ford is traded for Mickey Johnson whose fine all-around play leads the team to a franchise record 11 straight wins from December 23, 1982 to January 12, 1983. Johnson and '82 first round draft choice Sleepy Floyd are dealt to Golden State for guard Michael Ray Richardson on February 6th. The Nets hobble into their second straight playoff berth with several injuries and minus coach Larry Brown who departed for the University of Kansas on April 7th with six games left in the season. Under interim coach Bill Blair, the Nets go 2-4 and fall in two straight playoff games to the New York Knicks. Albert King and Buck Williams both lead the team in scoring averaging 17.0 points per game.

1983-84: STAN ALBECK TAKES OVER COACHING REIGNS; NETS MAKE NO TRADES FOR FIRST TIME IN NBA HISTORY, WIN 19 OF 25 DOWN THE STRETCH AND WIN FIRST EVER PLAYOFF GAME AND SERIES IN NBA

Final Record: 45-37 (.549)

On June 8, 1983, Albeck is named coach and promises a Nets playoff victory. Nets not only win a game in playoffs, they eliminate, 3-2, the defending World Champion Philadelphia 76ers before falling, 4-2, to Milwaukee in the Eastern Conference semi-finals. Darryl Dawkins makes his ninth season his best averaging 16.8 points and 6.8 rebounds, while Buck Williams becomes only the 9th NBA player to get 1,000 or more rebounds in his first three years. Otis Birdsong makes the NBA all-star team and winds up the Nets top scorer at 19.8.

1984-85: NETS LOG AN INCREDIBLE 223 MISSED PLAYER GAMES DUE TO INJURIES; TEAM EARNS 4TH CONSECUTIVE PLAYOFF BERTH AND ALBECK RESIGNS

Final Record: 42-40 (.512)

An amazing string of injuries sidelines Dawkins for 43 games; King 40, O'Koren 38 and Birdsong 26 to name a few. Despite the physical woes which dictated 16 different rosters and 13 different starting lineups, coach Albeck somehow guides the Nets to a winning record and 3rd place in the tough Atlantic Division. Richardson enjoys his best NBA campaign making his 4th all-star game appearances, becoming the first player ever to win a 3rd steals title and being named "Comeback Player of the Year," Williams leads the entire league in minutes played and becomes only the 8th player and first forward ever to garner 1,000 or more rebounds in each of his first four seasons. Head Coach Stan Albeck resigns on June 13, 1985 to become Chicago Bulls coach.

1985-86: NETS NAME DAVE WOHL AS ITS 7TH HEAD COACH; ROOKIE MENTOR HAS NETS OFF AND RUNNING BEFORE PROBLEMS ARISE; TEAM FINISHES BELOW .500 FOR FIRST TIME IN FIVE YEARS BUT STILL MAKES PLAYOFFS FOR 5TH STRAIGHT SEASON
Final Record: 39-43 (.476)

A long search for a new coach produces hard-working Dave Wohl who immediately installs a running attack in New Jersey. Nets jump out of gate quickly at 23-14 when Michael Ray Richardson suffers a drug relapse. Later on, he becomes a 3rd time NBA drug program violator and is banned from league on February 25. Darryl Dawkins suffers a back injury and misses 31 of the last 32 games. Mike Gminski, meanwhile, enjoys his best pro year as he leads the team in scoring and has the best night of his career on April 9 with 41 points and 22 rebounds in a win over Boston. Buck Williams is again a tower of strength and earns his 3rd all-star game appearance.

1986-87: NETS FAIL TO MAKE PLAYOFFS FOR FIRST TIME IN 6 YEARS; TEAM LOGS A NBA TEAM FRANCHISE HIGH WITH 252 GAMES LOST TO INJURY; NETS TIE SECOND WORST SEASON MARK; HARRY WELTMAN JOINS CLUB IN MARCH AS BASKETBALL GM
Final Record: 24-58 (.293)

Dave Wohl entered the season with alot of optimism, unfortunately Darryl Dawkins went down with back pain after 6 games and Otis Birdsong never returned after the 13th game with a leg injury. Orlando Woolridge led the team in scoring with 20.7 ppg avg and was the first Net forward to avg twenty since 1978-79. Buck Williams just missed a team rebounding mark and was only Net to play all 82 games. Harry Weltman joins the team to head basketball operations and Dave Wohl is signed to a contract extension.

1987-88: NETS SET A LEAGUE RECORD WITH 346 MANPOWER GAMES LOST DUE TO INJURY. ACQUIRE ROY HINSON, KEITH LEE, JOHN BAGLEY, AND TIM McCORMICK VIA TRADES; NAME NBA OF FAME CENTER WILLIS REED AS CLUB'S EIGHTH HEAD COACH.
Final Record: 19-63 (.231)

The Nets sputter to a 2-13 start leading to the release of Dave Wohl on December 9. Assistant General Manager Bob MacKinnon takes over injury-riddled squad on an interim basis as club begins what would become an extensive 12 week search for a head coach. Nets ownership and management proudly name legendary center Willis Reed as "captain" of Nets for the last 28 games of the season on February 29. Buck Williams misses his first ever pro games due to injury, yet finishes season as club's leading scorer (18.3), rebounder (11.9), minutes (37.7), and field goal percentage (.560). Attendance figures show an increase for the first time since franchise moved to Meadowlands in 1981.

1988-89: WILLIS REED COMPLETES FIRST FULL SEASON AS NETS HEAD COACH AND POSTS BEST RECORD IN TWO SEASONS. ACQUIRE JOE BARRY CARROLL, LESTER CONNER, AND MIKE McGEE VIA TRADES BEFORE START OF SEASON.
Final Record: 26-56 (.317)

With seven new faces from the close of the previous season the Nets immediately jumped to a 5-3 start and managed a .500 record through most of November before losing Joe Barry Carroll to injury, spurring a six game losing streak. The Nets posted inspirational home victories versus the Los Angeles Lakers, the Boston Celtics, the Chicago Bulls, and the New York Knicks (twice). Roy Hinson led the team with a 16.0 scoring average while Buck Williams (9.4 rpg) failed to average double figures in rebounding for the first time in his career. The club posted five sellouts and attendance figures showed an increase for the second straight year.

1989-90: WILLIS REED RELINQUISHES HEAD COACHING ROLE AND BECOME SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS. BILL FITCH BECOMES NETS' 12TH HEAD COACH. CLUB TRADES BUCK WILLIAMS FOR SAM BOWIE AND DRAFT MOOKIE BLAYLOCK. GM HARRY WELTMAN RESIGNS FOLLOWING SEASON.

Final Record 17-65 (.207)

In August of 1989, Willis Reed moved upstairs and Bill Fitch took over the coaching duties. Prior to the coaching change however, the Nets traded 8-year veteran Buck Williams to Portland for center Sam Bowie and the 12th selection in the draft in which the Nets selected point guard Mookie Blaylock. Bowie, after almost 2 years of inactivity due to leg problems, played 68 games and led the team with 10.1 rebounds per game and 1.78 blocks per game while averaging 14.7 points. The Nets struggled throughout the season to a league worst 17-65 record, also the worst in franchise history. Highlights of the season included a 2-0 start on the year with back-to-back road wins versus the Miami Heat and the Orlando Magic. Later in the season the Nets defeated Atlanta and Boston in a three day span both at home and in the victory over Boston the Nets held the Celtics to a franchise low 77 points including a Boston all-time low of 6 points in one quarter. General Manager Harry Weltman resigned on May 8, 1990 citing health and personal goals.

YEARS OF HARD WORK. A MOMENT OF GLORY.

There is no such thing as an easy victory.

Every win is the result of years of hard work, years of dedication. And the sweetest success is hardest won. At American Airlines, we've seen how far that kind of dedication can go. It's the force that drives our on-time flights. Our efficient baggage handling. Our meticulous maintenance service. And the force that keeps us setting the industry's highest standards. Flight after flight, year after year.

It means pushing ourselves a little farther every day. But no one said winning would be easy. The best just make it look that way.
